EMBRACE THE SERENITY OF NATURE

Untouched Island Beauty

Immerse yourself in the resort's expansive 22-acre, idyllic natural environment, where crystal-clear turquoise lagoons and a private, bountiful reef teeming with colorful marine life create an underwater wonderland. Witness a variety of stunning fish, dolphins, tuna, and turtles, throughout the resort's magnificent house reef. Experience rare encounters with the preciously guarded marine life and pristine nature in an eco-conscious setting. Discover our majestic paradise and its best kept secrets that can be found within the luscious green jungle, turquoise waters and across the white-sand Maldivian beaches.

- Coral Diversity: The coral reefs around Vommuli island are characterized by a wide variety of coral species, including hard corals (Scleractinia) and soft corals (octocorals). These corals form intricate structures and provide the foundation for the entire reef ecosystem. Branching corals, massive corals, and encrusting corals are among the many types that contribute to the reef's structural complexity.
- Fish and Invertebrates: there is a vast array of fish species, ranging from colorful reef fish like parrotfish, butterflyfish, and angelfish to apex predators such as reef sharks and barracudas. In addition to fish, the reef supports a diverse community of invertebrates, including crustaceans, mollusks, and echinoderms. Sea cucumbers, starfish, and various species of crabs and shrimps can be found among the coral formations.
- Sea Turtles: Vommuli Island's coral reef provides essential habitat for endangered sea turtles. There are three hawksbill turtles that are resident to the island! These graceful creatures rely on the reef for feeding, shelter, and nesting sites.
- Rays and Other Marine Life: some species of rays, including stingrays and eagle rays, can often be spotted. Additionally, octopuses and squids are among the many other fascinating inhabitants that can be found usually hidden in the caves of the house reef.

Coral Conservation Leadership

- Recognizing the importance of preserving this valuable ecosystem, conservation initiatives are prioritized to protect the coral reefs of Vommuli Island. These efforts include the coral reef restoration project in partnership with Reefscapers Maldives. With almost 10,000 coral fragments restored and 3 restoration sites in the island, we have created and protected a healthier home for more marine life. Through educational classes and snorkeling adventures led by our resident Marine Biologist, guests actively participate in conserving the underwater world. By sponsoring coral frames to contribute to our house reef's restoration, guests can create a personal legacy in the Maldives' waters.

A SANCTUARY OF UNMATCHED ELEGANCE THROUGH DESIGN

The Island's Story

The island is designed with four ecological zones; the lagoon, the beach, the jungle and the coast. The architecture in each zone is inspired by unique features from the natural environment.

Lagoon Zone

- Overwater Villas, inspired by Manta Rays with their graceful form and distinctive cephalic lobes, offer an aquatic haven of peace.
- The Whale Bar, mirroring the grandeur of a whale shark, offers a tranquil setting for relaxation.
- The Iridium Spa, shaped like a crustacean, welcomes guests to a world of serene wellness.

Beach Zone

- Beach Villas, inspired by the traditional fisherman's huts that were found on the beach when we first came to the island before any construction began.

Jungle Zone

- Vommuli House, in the heart of the jungle, is the nature discovery center where design is inspired by a large banyan tree in the dense vegetation. Its distinctive branching form and space are like the roots of the tree, and in each "branch" are recreational and educational eco-activities that bring together different generations of families.

Coastal Zone

- Family Villas: the coastal family villas are reminiscent of the Maldivian Dhoni that sail these waters. The two-story volume is wrapped by a sail-inspired roof that opens on two sides to reveal expansive decks and verandas that celebrate sea views.
